DEATH OF A GOOD MAN .- On Friday last, Capt. Collin W. Barnes was suddenly stricken with Apoplexy at his residence in the county of Northampton, and died on the same day. He was 72 years old at the time of his decease. In the death of Capt. Barnes the community and the County in which he resided have sustained an irreparable loss. From his early manhood up to the period of his death he was never free from the cares and responsibilities of an office of some character, imposed upon him by the partiality of his friends, and he acted well his part in every station assigned him. His accurate information, his excellent sense and sound, discriminating judgement, his experience in the practical affairs of life, his incorruptible integrity, his devotion to truth from which he was never known to swerve, and his broad, comprehensive philanthropy secured for him throughout his life the unbounded confidence and universal esteem of all whose privilege it was to enjoy his acquaintance. This rare combination of virtues, superadded to social qualities of the highest order, without any effort on his part to win the favor of the people, rendered him one of the most deservedly popular men in the section of the State in which he lived, and he was repeatedly elected to the State Legislature against the political views of a large majority of the people whom he represented. But it was in the sphere of domestic and private life that his virtues shone out at once conspicuous and lovely. As a husband, father, friend and master he was all that a man should be, and in all-these relations his example is worthy of universal imitation. He was emphatically and practically the friend of the widow and orphan; and no man that ever lived more promptly or more liberally responded to the claims of suffering humanity. The poor and the needy, the distressed and the disconsolate always found a friend, a benafactor in him. He was "glad to distribute" of the abundance of his store to the relief of the indigent, and his house was ever the home of the oppressed, and the resort of the honest and virtuous of all classes. The only distinction he knew was that based upon merit. Frank and open in his intercourse with mankind, plain and unostentations in his manner, kind and obliging in his nature, erecting for himself the highest standard of morality by which he regulated his entire conduct, and living above reproach and above suspicion, at a ripe old age, full of years and and full of honors, he has gone down to the tomb, deeply lamented by all, leaving behind not an enemy upon earth, and bequeathing to his family that which is far "above all Greek, above all Roman fame,"the priceless heritage of a spotless name.

Capt. Barnes leaves a wife, seven children, of whom four are sons, (and amongst them David A. Barnes, of Jackson,) and three are daughters, several grand childern, and a numerous train of relatives. and friends to mourn their irreparable loss. The writer of this humble tribute to his virtues will ever cherish the remembrance of his valued friendship as one of the proudest and most precious mementoes of his life-an oasis in the desert, a bright, green spot in "memory's waste." Cold and motionless, his venerable form reposes in the silent chambers of the dead; but the influence of his virtuous actions and his noble example can never die. "These shall resist the empire of decay, When time is o'er, and worlds have passed away; Cold in the dust the perished heart may lie, But that which warmed it once can never die." War. News.

KEEP COOL .- Those calm and rational exhortations to " Take it coolly," and " Never cry for spilt milk," are all very good till they are needed. They are extremely salutary before the fever kindles or the milk is spilled; but in the presence of pain, or on the advent of a disaster, to all but those who are gifted with fortitude by nature, or have been disciplined in the school of affliction, they are about as effectual as whistling in the teeth of a nor'-wester. Their utter impotence in a storm of passion, reminds us of the directions given by a good New England deacon to his choleric son:

"Whenever you feel your dander rising," said he, "be sure to say the Lord's prayer, my son, or else the alphabet clean through; and long before you get to end on't you'll be as cool as a cucumber, or an iceberg. Promise me faithfully, my son. " Yes, daddy, I promise."

Off trodged Jonathan to school, carrying his bread and meat, with a small bottle of molasses in his jacket pocket, and his late firm promise uppermost in his mind. A boy, who bore him an old grudge, met him, and after calling him the "young deacon," and many other scurrilous nicknames, caught him off his guard, and threw him to the ground, tearing his jacket and breaking his molasses bottle. Up jumped Jonathan, his eyes wolfish, and his lips white with rage. But 'there was an oath in Heaven," and he did not forget it. So he proceeded to swallow his alphabetical pills-an antidote to wrath not mentioned in the 'Regimen Salernitanum,' nor recognized by the British College." "A, B, C-you've tored my jacket!-D, E, F-you've spilt my lasses!-G, H, I, J, K-you're a rascal!-L, M, N, O, P, Q-I'll learn you better manners, you scamp, you !-R, S, T, U, V-I'll spile yer picter, you old wall-eye-W, X, Y, Z-now I'll pound your insides out o' you, you darned encroachin' willain!' And with that, Jonathan, whose passion had been mounting alphabetically throughout all his father's prescription of vowels and consonants, caught the young scapegrace, and throwing him down, was proceeding to work off each of the Deacon's twenty-six anti- irascible pills in the shape of a dozen hearty fisticuffs had not the timely approach of a passenger interrupted the manipulations. So much for rules Knickerbocker. to control the passion. THE NATIONAL WHIG PARTY-A HEAVY REWARD.

The Georgetown (Kentucky) Herald gives a humorous account of a select meeting of National Whigs, recently held in Frankfort, Ky., at which the following resolution was adopted: "Resolved, That we, the sole representatives of the great Whig party of northern and southern Kentucky, being sorely at a loss to know 'where we shall go,' publish the following advertisement to the Know Nothings of Kentucky, and 'all the balance of mankind,' in the hope that by this method we may be able to restore to the sheep-fold of the faithful all those true friends of the 'rich Irish brogue,' and the 'sweet German accent,' who have so suddenly and mysteriously disappeared from the face of the earth." The following is a copy of the advertisement referred to in the above: "One thousand dollars reward will be paid for the arrest, conviction or conversion of the Whig central committee and all the rest of the great Whig party, who recently strayed or were stolen from the fold of the faithful, and who now know nothing of the patriotic Harry Clay, but have become argent worshippers at the shrine of veritable "old San!" Said committee, with their allies and fuglemen, are supposed to be nightly lurking in some of the cellars or out house of the city of Frankfort; and when seen in daylight may be readily recognised by their 'oily gammon' physiognomies.

"Of the above reward $1 will be paid for the discovery of the central body; and $999 to be paid for the conviction and conversion of the balance of the party to true national Whig principles."
